

NOW IN MIAMI

The TM8 frames ($390) are not your average aviators, thanks to an engraved anti-slip ridge at the temple top and a subtly engraved Tomas Maier logo.

A pair of seagulls adds a graphic element to this long-sleeve T-shirt ($225), made of ultracool organic cotton.

Roomy enough for all those beach or pool essentials and a change of clothes, the canvas beach tote ($595) is, as Maier puts it, "a beautiful necessity."

We love the Boogie Nights feel of these ombre swim shorts ($290) with side and back pockets.

Made of leather and nylon, the color-blocked sneakers ($490) that bring this outfit together have summer favorite written all over them, thanks to that palm tree motif.

BEACH BOUND

Former Palm Beach and Miami resident Tomas Maier understands our summer style conundrums all too well: Looking good and staying cool are not mutually exclusive. That's why the designer has launched Beach, a new capsule collection for men and women (think swimwear, knitwear, jerseys, bags and eyewear) that arrives at seaside boutiques in May. "There are destinations that need this product exactly at a precise time, and this [line] caters to those locations," he says. "Everything was conceived to work together in colors that work for everyone. Floridians can spend the weekend in these items at home or on the boat." Now, that's music to our overheated ears. Bal Harbour Shops, 9700 Collins Ave., Bal Harbour, 305.351.9560, tomasmaier.com —Luis R. Rigual
